

URL <https://www.ft.com/content/272354f2-f970-4ae4-a8ae-848c4baf8f4a>

Quick facts

 Company:	Financial Times
 Sector:	Economy & Finance
 Product / service:	Website
 Type of data:	Economic Data
 Origin:	Europe

Description

Following the continued spread of the COVID-19 pandemic and national regulations, economic activity in several countries are slowly starting to recover. The Financial Times is tracking the most relevant economic indicators to provide early insights in the economic recovery across key sectors and countries. They also provide regular updates to the charts, and new indicators will be added as they become available.

Benefits

The Tracker provides a comprehensive overview of changes in economic activities across countries, focusing on topics that are deeply affected by the crisis such as leisure, traveling, consumer spending and tourism.

Coronavirus economic impact

+ Add to myFT

Pandemic crisis: Global economic recovery tracker

Alternative indicators give an early picture of whether the global economy is returning to pre-crisis levels

How open data is used

The Financial Times combines information from different sources to create a database where the visuals of the tracker are bases upon.

