Due to a range of digital offers, the collections can be accessed and explored on a virtual tour. A wide variety of objects and their histories are waiting to be discovered on the website www.smb.museum, through the online database SMB-digital, and via "Museum and the City", the blog of the Staatliche Museen zu Berlin.

Benefits

- Online visitors can see famous artworks and enjoy art from their home.
- European citizens can bond over our communal art heritage through online commenting on the content of museums.

How open data is used

Cultural open data is uploaded in the form of high-resolution images of art through the online database. Thereby, the museum offers a virtual tour in collaboration with Google Arts & Culture. The three museums provide data platforms for sharing information and images about art works between employees, artists, historians and their visitors.
