Quick facts

-  Company: Land Insight
-  Sector: Regions & Cities
-  Product / service: Application
-  Type of data: Land & property data
-  Origin: United Kingdom

Benefits

-  By consolidating the open data, land insight makes it easier to identify and assess potential sites to build new houses on.
-  Land Insight relieves buyers from the hassle of finding decision makers and owners of potential building sites.

How open data is used

-  Land Insight uses the open data from a commercial data gathering company to gather land and property data on England and Wales.
-  Land Insight gathers other information from national land and property datasets, to gather information on property owners and property planning.

Description

-  Land Insight helps identify and assess land with potential for new housing. The company offers tools to get insights about building sites, owners, market valuations, planning applications and planning policies. By consolidating this data into one application, Land Insight saves companies time otherwise spent on research planning policies and saves site owners time in searching for potential housing projects.
